Writing New Media-Anne Wysocki 2007-03-01 As new media mature, the changes they bring to writing in college are many and suggest implications not only for the tools of writing, but also for the contexts, personae, and conventions of writing. An especially visible change has been the increase of visual elements-from typographic flexibility to the easy use and manipulation of color and images. Another would be in the scenes of writing-web sites, presentation "slides," email, online conferencing and coursework, even help files, all reflect non-traditional venues that new media have brought to writing. By one logic, we must reconsider traditional views even of what counts as writing; a database, for example, could be a new form of written work. The authors of Writing New Media bring these ideas and the changes they imply for writing instruction to the audience of rhetoric/composition scholars. Their aim is to expand the college writing teacher's understanding of new media and to help teachers prepare students to write effectively with new media beyond the classroom. Each chapter in the volume includes a lengthy discussion of rhetorical and technological background, and then follows with classroom-tested assignments from the authors' own teaching.

The Allyn & Bacon Guide to Writing, Brief Edition-John D. Ramage 2006

A Short Guide to Action Research-Andrew Paul Johnson 2008 This compact, user-friendly book provides everything a teacher needs to know to conduct an action research project, in a clear, step-by-step presentation. This book guides the learner through comprehension and interpretation of both qualitative and quantitative techniques in action research methods and then describes all phases of the process, including selecting a topic; collecting, analyzing, and reporting data; reviewing the literature; and presenting the report. There are many new strategies and examples of projects that can be used for professional growth and development included with this edition, as well as more examples, ideas for possible research questions, & many new forms and graphics that have been added.

The Elements of Style-William Strunk 1918 This classic book is intended for use in which the practice of composition is combined with the study of literature, it gives in brief space the principal requirements of plain English style and concentrates attention on the rules of usage and principles of composition most commonly violated.

Instructional Leadership-Anita Woolfolk Hoy 2006 This text goes beyond traditional leadership or supervision books and assumes that teachers and principals must work as colleagues to improve teaching and learning in schools. This is the first text of its kind, written for principals and other instructional leaders to help them understand current theories of teaching and learning as well as the practical curriculum applications of these perspectives. "The greatest strength of the Woolfolk Hoy text is the focus on instruction and developing leaders devoted to nurturing learner-centered campuses and classrooms." "Dr. Steve Jenkins -- University of Texas of the Permian Basin" "This text provides my students with a base of knowledge regarding exemplary instructional strategies as well as an illustration of what constitutes good teaching." "Robert J. Supku -- Rider University" New to this edition: New Feature--A Principal's Perspective describes the experiences of an actual principal in dealing with a problem of practice related to the ideas and concepts of that particular chapter. New Point/Counterpoints have been added to each chapter to illustrate the complexity of the issues facing instructional leaders. New Research--over 200 new studies and analyses enrich the examination of the crucial topics in this text. New Coverage of NCLB--the impact of recent legislation is discussed throughout the text. New Standards Matrix connects chapter content with the ISLLC standards for easy reference. Writing With Power-Peter Elbow 1998-07-09 A classic handbook for anyone who needs to write, Writing With Power speaks to everyone who has wrestled with words while seeking to gain power with them. Here, Peter Elbow emphasizes that the essential activities underlying good writing and the essential exercises promoting it are really not difficult at all. Employing a cookbook approach, Elbow provides the reader (and writer) with various recipes: for getting words down on paper, for revising, for dealing with an audience, for getting feedback on a piece of writing, and still other recipes for approaching the mystery of power in writing. In a new introduction, he offers his reflections on the original edition, discusses the responses from people who have followed his techniques, how his methods may differ from other processes, and how his original topics are still pertinent to today's writer. By taking risks and embracing mistakes, Elbow hopes the writer may somehow find a hold on the creative process and be able to heighten two mentalities--the production of writing and the revision of it. From students and teachers to novelists and poets, Writing with Power reminds us that we can celebrate the uses of mystery, chaos, nonplanning, and magic, while achieving analysis, conscious control, explicitness, and care in whatever it is we set down on paper.

Teaching and Learning in the Information Age-Lynne Schrum 1997 A curriculum-based book with a blend of applications, theory, history and research, this also offers a practical approach to implementing telecommunications in schools. As well as practical applications, it provides teacher stories which relate the information presented to the classroom. An entire chapter is devoted to research for educators, and the book provides frequent references to the locations of resources.

The Allyn and Bacon Guide to Writing Portfolios-Gina Claywell 2001 This brief and inexpensive book helps students compile effective portfolios for a variety of situations and courses. Shows students how to understand what type of portfolio is called for, recognize the material most appropriate for inclusion, and submit a portfolio that shows learning. This guide does not approach portfolios as the driving force of a course; rather, it teaches students who are asked to submit portfolios - with or without direct instructor supervision - how to construct successful portfolios. Anyone looking to compile a portfolio.

SPSS for Windows Step by Step-Darren George 2007 Are you confused by SPSS? Do you understand the concepts of statistics but struggle with the computer analysis? Are you tired of figuring out in hours what should only take you minutes? Or are you just looking for a straightforward, comprehensive reference for SPSS? "SPSS for Windows Step by Step: A Simple Guide and Reference," "14.0 Update" efficiently shows you how to perform the most common data analysis procedures in SPSS. The first part of the book explains the basics of creating and formatting a data set and includes a chapter on graphs that accommodates the changes in SPSS 14.0. Chapters 6-28 explain, step by step, the most common procedures in the Base System Module and the Advanced and Regression Modules. Each chapter is arranged in three parts: The "Introduction" explains the procedures that follow at the conceptual level, avoiding excessive detail and excessive emphasis on computation. "Step by Step" boxes and screenshots break down each procedure with clear references to tasks covered in previous chapters. "Outcome" sections explain the output of what you have just performed and define critical terms. All data sets used in this book are available for download on the companion website, saving you the time of entering data.

Essentials of Psychology: Concepts and Applications-Jeffrey S. Nevid 2016-12-05 ESSENTIALS OF PSYCHOLOGY: CONCEPTS AND APPLICATIONS, 5th Edition retains the hallmark features and pedagogical aids that have made this text unique in presenting the foundations of psychology in a manageable, reader-friendly format. Students gain a broad view of psychology and see applications of the knowledge gained from contemporary research to the problems and challenges we face in today's world. Nevid's comprehensive learning system, derived from research on memory, learning, and textbook pedagogy, is featured throughout. This model incorporates the Four E's of Effective Learning -- Engaging Student Interest, Encoding Information, Elaborating Meaning, and Evaluating Progress. Thoroughly updated with recent research developments, this edition also features an expanded focus on psychology in the digital world -- a topic students are sure to find fascinating and relevant. Important Notice: Media content referenced within the product description or the product text may not be available in the ebook version.

Intervention Planning for Children with Communication Disorders-Harriet B. Klein 1999 This book explores the problem-solving and decision-making process involved in clinical intervention planning across categories of children's communication disorders. Survey Research and the World Wide Web-Dale Nesbary 2000 B> Survey Research and the World Wide Web helps readers learn how to construct a survey or use the Web as a medium for targeting and surveying well-focused populations. The authors provide readers with specific approaches for collecting representative data from a variety of groups, populations and resources as well as practical, straightforward exercises that include numerous examples. Step-by-step instructions are provided to guide readers to accomplish each activity and screen shots and real-life vignettes highlighting the application of concepts and programs discussed in the text. This book is not a technical manual on how to program HTML or master Microsoft FrontPage, rather it is designed to help readers become proficient at using Web survey research tools. For anyone interested in building web research skills.

Hummingbird House-Patricia Henley 2000-04 An American midwife travels to Central America to care for the women and children suffering through war.

Ethics in Technical Communication-Paul M. Dombrowski 2000 The purpose of this textbook is to get you thinking and talking and doing ethics as a part of your professional life. It aims to stimulate class discussion and reflection about and to increase your awareness of the ethical dimension of technical communication. You will be introduced to several different ethical theories or perspectives. For the most part, no one particular ethical theory will be urged over any others, nor any one particular direction of judgment over others, though we will see that most ethical theories are in general agreement in their application to most cases.

Zoli-Colum McCann 2008-12-10 A unique love story, a tale of loss, a parable of Europe, this haunting novel is an examination of intimacy and betrayal in a community rarely captured so vibrantly in contemporary literature. Zoli Novotna, a young woman raised in the traveling Gypsy tradition, is a poet by accident as much as desire. As 1930s fascism spreads over Czechoslovakia, Zoli and her grandfather flee to join a clan of fellow Romani harpists. Sharpened by the world of books, which is often frowned upon in the Romani tradition, Zoli becomes the poster girl for a brave new world. As she shapes the ancient songs to her times, she finds her gift embraced by the Gypsy people and savored by a young English expatriate, Stephen Swann. But Zoli soon finds that when she falls she cannot fall halfway--neither in love nor in politics. While Zoli's fame and poetic skills deepen, the ruling Communists begin to use her for their own favor. Cast out from her family, Zoli abandons her past to journey to the West, in a novel that spans the 20th century and travels the breadth of Europe. Colum McCann, acclaimed author of Dancer and This Side of Brightness, has created a sensuous novel about exile, belonging and survival, based loosely on the true story of the Romani poet Papsuza. It spans the twentieth century and travels the breadth of Europe. In the tradition of Steinbeck, Coetzee, and Ondaatje, McCann finds the art inherent in social and political history, while vividly depicting how far one gifted woman must journey to find where she belongs. Praise for Zoli "Soaring and stumbling over decades of midcentury Eastern Europe, Zoli is a riveting novel."—Gail Caldwell, Boston Sunday Globe "Beautifully written . . . Beautifully conceived, wonderfully told, the story is proof of an indomitable spirit. The elusive character of Zoli, the brilliant artist, is unforgettable."—The Washington Post Book World BONUS: This edition includes an excerpt from Colum McCann's TransAtlantic.

Essentials of Educational Technology-James E. Schwartz 1999 Nowadays, technology infiltrates every aspect of our lives. Computers are altering and often improving the ways in which we do nearly everything. And, not surprisingly, there are many effective ways to use the new technology in the classroom as well. This book describes those ways. This clear, concise book discusses the integration of computer use into the curriculum. Presenting the material as an integrated whole, the authors encourage readers to think about the enormous power and potential of technology with its ability to change the way we think and learn. The book relates the material to every major curriculum area, offering accompanying activities and ideas for readers. And this book also prepares readers to anticipate and prevent unwanted, negative effects of technology. The World Wide Web is discussed in great length as well. Teachers of computers and technology.

Research Writing in the Information Age-Judith Arnold 1999 Research Writing in the Information Age reflects a unique collaboration: the expertise of a librarian, a classroom teacher, and a rhetorician guides students through the research process. Beginning with invention and exploration, this book integrates current technology, research methods, and evaluation of sources to help students construct cohesive and responsible research papers. Students learn to write in their own voices to an audience whose needs they have been taught to discover. The text covers both APA and MLA styles of documentation, with sample papers in each style, and treats both library and electronic research techniques as integral steps in the process. Research Writing in the Information Age is a collaborative, real-world, user-friendly text designed to teach students contemporary techniques to take them into the next century.
